Human connection persists in spite of the pandemic as neighborhoods across the Valley adapt to the new normal.

THE BIG PICTURE

In contrast to previous years’ annual reports, this year we have chosen to focus our stories on the community response to the COVID-19 pandemic instead of a roundup of stories from our previous fiscal year. Supporting community though crisis uplifts these stories and the financial impact that Arizona Community Foundation donors have had since early March of 2020. The Annual Report 2020 supplement provides a snapshot of ACF’s distributions, finances, funds, legacy donors, supporting organizations, boards and committees, and assets under management through March 31, 2020.

By mid-March, two weeks before the end of our fiscal year, ACF’s assets under management had reached $1.05 billion. During those two weeks, our assets dropped to $903 million due to market fluctuations caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. At the time of this report’s publication, our assets under management have rebounded to over $1 billion.

Wide open spaces at Flagstaff’s Buffalo Park – July 2020
Arizonaans take to the outdoors while following guidelines that encourage exercise with a healthy dose of distance.

SOCIAL DISTANCING

Parks, trails and open spaces are open to the public. Please remember to follow social distancing guidelines and remain at least 6 feet from others.

6 FEET  6 FEET
We are Arizonans and this is our community foundation. The donors, funds, grants, assets, and volunteers represented on the preceding pages are a testament to the importance of a community-led foundation that is open to innovative ideas and practices, can be responsive to all kinds of situations, and represents a cross-section of communities across the state. Thank you to those who have supported the Arizona Community Foundation and our mission to create a better Arizona. Our work continues and we are glad you have joined us.

In May of 2020, ACF grantee HandsOn Greater Phoenix launched a call for volunteers to write thank you notes to healthcare workers. Almost immediately, handmade cards and messages of gratitude began to flood the inboxes of those working tirelessly to treat patients with COVID-19, thanks to the Healthcare Hero Appreciation Card Project.
